

FREE ENGAGEMENT WISHES WORKBOOK

Find the right words, then make them yours.

1. Who Are You Writing To?

Start with the relationship. Your message can be short or detailed - what matters is that it feels like it came from you.

|                                           |                                           |
|-------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------|
| <input type="checkbox"/> Friend           | <input type="checkbox"/> Sister / Brother |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Son / Daughter   | <input type="checkbox"/> Parent           |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Fiancé / Fiancée | <input type="checkbox"/> Colleague        |

What do you want them to feel?

|                                 |                                     |                                     |
|---------------------------------|-------------------------------------|-------------------------------------|
| <input type="checkbox"/> Loved  | <input type="checkbox"/> Celebrated | <input type="checkbox"/> Encouraged |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Amused | <input type="checkbox"/> Blessed    | <input type="checkbox"/> Proud      |

YOUR CONNECTION

How would you describe your relationship in one sentence?

Example: "We've been close since college and I've watched their relationship grow."

Three details worth remembering

Think of a shared memory, a quality you admire, or something unique about the couple.

---

---

Tip: A specific detail usually makes a short message feel more meaningful than a long list of compliments.

2. Build Your Message

Use this four-part formula to turn a simple congratulations into a personal engagement message.

01*CONGRATULATIONS

Open with genuine excitement. Name the engagement and celebrate the couple.

02*PERSONAL DETAIL

Add one memory, quality, inside joke, or observation that belongs to them.

03*FUTURE WISH

Look ahead: wish them joy, patience, adventure, faith, laughter, or a beautiful life together.

04*CLOSING

End naturally with warmth: love, congratulations, best wishes, or your signature.

Build it in your own words

Congratulations: I'm so happy for you because _____

Personal detail: One thing I'll always remember / admire is _____

Future wish: I hope your life together is filled with _____

Closing: _____

QUICK CHECK

Does it sound like you? Does it mention something specific? Does it leave the couple with a clear feeling?

3. Choose Your Tone

The same congratulations can feel completely different depending on who will receive it.

|                                    |                                    |                                |
|------------------------------------|------------------------------------|--------------------------------|
| <input type="checkbox"/> Short     | <input type="checkbox"/> Heartfelt | <input type="checkbox"/> Funny |
| <input type="checkbox"/> Religious | <input type="checkbox"/> Formal    |                                |

SHORT

"Congratulations on your engagement! Wishing you both _____."

HEARTFELT

"Seeing you find each other makes me _____. I'll always cherish _____."

FUNNY

"Congratulations! You two are officially _____. Here's to a lifetime of _____."

RELIGIOUS

"May God bless your engagement and guide you toward _____. Praying for _____."

FORMAL

"Warmest congratulations on your engagement. May your future together be filled with _____."

MAKE IT SOUND NATURAL

Read your draft out loud. Replace any phrase you would never actually say. A warm, authentic message beats a perfect-sounding one.

4. Your Engagement Card

Now write the message you'll actually copy, send, or sign.

To: _____

From: _____
